Asset Management

Last Mile Electricity – 2025 to 2026 Distribution Flexibility Service Procurement Report

lastmile

Asset Management

Distribution Flexibility Procurement Report

1. Introduction

Last Mile Electricity Limited (LME) is an Independent Distribution Network Operator that owns electricity distribution networks throughout the UK, with approximately 366,000 connected customers. Last Mile Asset Management Limited (LMAM) operates and maintains LMEL networks under an asset management services agreement.

These networks are predominantly 'last mile' connections, constructed as extensions to existing electricity networks, to service domestic, commercial, and industrial customers, and are thus embedded within the upstream Distribution Network Operators' systems.

As a result, LME networks are of a relatively young age, compared to host DNO networks. and have been designed with consideration of more modern load requirements of the users connected to its networks, such as Low Carbon Technology and Distributed Generation requirements.

2. Flexibility Services Report

LMAM has considered the requirements for procurement of distribution flexibility services in line with LME license condition obligations as follows: -

- The flexibility services contracted for use in the reporting year, compared with the flexibility services dispatched in the reporting year, in MW or MVAr.
- If flexibility needs were not met.
- The projected flexibility services procured, compared with actual services procured, by product type.
- A summary organised first by product, and further presented by location, of the flexibility services that were tendered for in the preceding twelve months.
- A summary of any conflict mitigation that had taken place as a result of coordination with the NESO.

LMAM confirms on behalf of LME that no distribution flexibility services were procured throughout the year 2025 to 2026, in line with the submitted 2025 Distribution Flexibility Services Procurement Statement.

Mick Beeby
Associate Director, Asset Management